development and education, announces its initiative to demystify and harness the potential of Artificial Intelligence (AI). With an expansive catalog of over 6,000 training courses from more than 1,700 schools and organizations, Alternatives to College now includes a dedicated focus on AI and technology-based programs, accessible online at alternativestocollege.com.

In a world where AI is often viewed with apprehension, Alternatives to College LLC encourages individuals and businesses to embrace the change. “Our mission is to provide accessible, practical education paths that prepare people for the future. AI is not something to fear but an opportunity to grow and innovate,” states Joseph Schmoke, founder of Alternatives to College LLC.

This initiative offers courses that focus on AI, machine learning, data science, and more, aiming to equip learners with the skills needed in an increasingly AI-driven job market. From introductory courses for beginners to advanced programs for tech professionals, Alternatives to College ensures there's a learning path for everyone.

“I have found that nearly 80% of the people I speak with possess an element of fear when considering AI. I'm not surprised. Anything new is, in a way, threatening. But I look at AI as an exceptional opportunity and recommend that people begin to familiarize themselves with AI,” Schmoke said. He suggests AI familiarization courses like one offered by Learn Academy <https://learnacademy.org> or the free AI courses now provided by many tech companies and institutions.

The inclusion of AI-focused programs is part of Alternatives to College LLC's commitment to providing faster and more affordable education alternatives. Whether it's upskilling for a current career or diving into a new tech-focused field, the organization bridges the gap between traditional education and the evolving demands of the workforce.
