

Nigerian Christians massacred as Blinken visits Abuja

Christian Solidarity International calls for end to killings in Middle Belt

ZURICH, SWITZERLAND, January 25, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Dozens of Christians in Mangu local government area of Plateau State in Nigeria have been killed in Fulani militia attacks since January 23, CSI's sources in the area report.

The massacres came as U.S. Secretary of State Antony Blinken made an official visit to Nigeria on January 23 and 24, and just three weeks after Blinken refused, for the third year in a row, to designate Nigeria as a "country of particular concern" for religious persecution.

Antony Blinken shakes hands with Yusuf Maitama Tuggar, video screengrab. Credit: U.S. Department of State

On Tuesday afternoon, CSI's sources in Plateau State reported that Fulani militia fighters were moving on motorbike to attack Christian villages in Mangu.

“

We urge the U.S. and its allies to address these killings in their dealings with the Nigerian government.”

Dr. John Eibner

By Wednesday, the attacks had killed at least 25 Christians, including a family of six who were burned alive in their home in Sabon Kasuwa village. A church in the same village was burned down.

In recent years, attacks by Fulani militias in Nigeria's Middle Belt have killed more Nigerians than attacks by Boko Haram or the Islamic State. These attacks, directed at farming communities inhabited by indigenous Christian people groups, have displaced hundreds of thousands of people from their homeland since 2018.

In an impassioned video statement shared on social media, the local chairman of the Christian Association of Nigeria in Mangu local government area stated that the Nigerian military was complicit in the attacks.

"The military are the ones sending our people away to allow the militia to burn their houses," he charged. "They have set a curfew," but it is enforced "only on people within Mangu, within the Christian domains."

Military forces had themselves killed three young men in the area, including one of his parishioners, the pastor said. "There is an evil plan to destroy Mangu."

On Christmas Eve, hundreds of Christians in Plateau State were massacred by Fulani militias going from village to village in Bokkos, Barkin Ladi, and Mangu local government areas.

At a joint press conference with Nigeria's Foreign Minister, Yusuf Maitama Tuggar, Blinken extended "the condolences of the American people to all Nigerians who were affected by the horrific attacks over the Christmas weekend."

According to reporting by Morning Star News's Nigeria correspondents, more than 136 Christians have been killed in Nigeria since January 1.

Nigeria is the deadliest country in the world for Christians. In 2020, CSI issued a Genocide Warning for Christians in Nigeria.

CSI's international president, Dr. John Eibner, commented, "We urge the U.S. and its allies to address these killings in their dealings with the Nigerian government, rather than continuing to turn a blind eye to the slow genocide unfolding in Africa's most populous nation."

Morven McLean

CSI

morven.mclean@csi-int.org

Visit us on social media:

Facebook

Twitter

LinkedIn

Instagram

YouTube

This press release can be viewed online at: <https://www.einpresswire.com/article/683776197>

EIN Presswire's priority is source transparency. We do not allow opaque clients, and our editors try to be careful about weeding out false and misleading content. As a user, if you see something we have missed, please do bring it to our attention. Your help is welcome. EIN Presswire, Everyone's Internet News Presswire™, tries to define some of the boundaries that are reasonable in today's world. Please see our Editorial Guidelines for more information.

© 1995-2024 Newsmatics Inc. All Right Reserved.