national leader in providing children – in communities experiencing racial and economic inequities – from age 3 through grade 3 with evidence-based, culturally responsive literacy instruction, today announced Luvvie Ajayi Jones as its first-ever National Brand Ambassador.

Ajayi Jones, a four-time New York Times bestselling author, speaker, and entrepreneur, is partnering with The Literacy Lab to lend her personal vision to authentically support brand storytelling throughout The Literacy Lab’s 15th anniversary celebration in 2024.

“We could not be more thrilled to have Luvvie join The Literacy Lab as our first-ever National Brand Ambassador,” said Heather Jenkins, CEO of The Literacy Lab. “Luvvie’s confidence, creative intellect, and passion for challenging the status quo truly embodies The Literacy Lab’s brand values. We are impressed by her candid conversations, achievements, and the impact she has made as a brand celebrity and look forward to collaborating with Luvvie to incorporate her vision into Literacy Lab storytelling.”

As a self-described teller of truth, Ajayi Jones uses her singular voice and razor-sharp wit to create a transformative experience that spurs people to feel joy, think critically, and take action that leaves this world better than they found it. Jones has also established herself as a literacy force with a powerful pen.

“As a lifelong reader and now bestselling author, I know the impact that books have had on my life,” said Ajayi Jones. “The Literacy Lab's work is significant, enabling this type of life changing access. It is an honor to be the first National Brand Ambassador”

Since its inception in 2009, The Literacy Lab has served tens of thousands of students across the country to help accelerate equitable literacy gains. Partnering with Jones will help amplify The Literacy Lab story across multiple channels.

Jones will begin elevating The Literacy Lab's storytelling on her social media platforms next month.
