The website for Attorney at Law Magazine notes that "Attorney at Law Magazine has been a favored publication of many attorney's and non-attorney's alike. Their magazine focuses on the latest legal minds and trends in cities throughout the United States. Attorney at Law Magazine is a national online publication about and for the private practice lawyer and the legal community. The magazine focuses on the industry, its events, trends and the people who drive its success. In addition to a robust editorial on breaking legal news and case law, the magazine delivers content focused on the business of law — legal marketing, practice management, client relationships, reputation management, recruiting and more.

While Attorney at Law Magazine delivers content for the legal industry, the biggest differentiator is the content about the industry. Attorney at Law Magazine made a name for itself by telling the stories of the men and women who have dedicated their lives to the practice of law. These stories on the people behind the Juris Doctor is what the magazine is truly about."

Lyft case where almost after 5 years the trial resulted in a six million dollar verdict after finding Lyft guilty of negligence (citation) among other cases. This was not necessarily the verdict amount but the legal issue of "ostensible agent issues that many lawyers have struggled with finding Lyft liable for the acts of their supposed independent contractors.
