Aluminum sheets exhibit excellent thermal and electrical conductivity. They are non-toxic and non-magnetic.

SHERIDAN, WYOMING, UNITED STATES, January 30, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- In the Asian region, the price trend of aluminum sheets was impacted by the fluctuating price of aluminum ingots. Reduced construction industry activities and labor strikes contributed to the fall in demand and prices in the first quarter. In Europe, the price trend declined due to low buyer confidence, constrained supply, and fears of price spikes. However, the second quarter saw an incline in prices with reduced inventories, increased production costs, and improving sentiments in the automotive sector. North America experienced a decline in the first quarter, affected by the banking sector's fall, weak downstream demand, inflation, and interest rate hikes. Prices incline in Q2 due to improved downstream dynamics and reduced inventories.
