awareness week and all year long, SuperCare Health remains committed to increasing access to care and providing the highest quality programs and products to patients with conditions including chronic obstructive pulmonary disease (COPD), cystic fibrosis, pulmonary fibrosis, neuromuscular disorders, asthma, sleep apnea, and more.

In 2021, The Health Information National Trends Survey found that only 52.8 percent of adults felt their healthcare providers involved them in decisions about their healthcare as much as they wanted.

Additionally, the study reported that fewer than 27% of adults believed their healthcare provider helped them understand their diagnoses and prescriptions. SuperCare Health is on the frontlines battling these statistics through comprehensive programs that better connect patients and their providers while helping patients follow their prescribed care plans.

In honor of National Patient Recognition Week, SuperCare Health’s leading Respiratory Therapists demonstrated their dedication to compassionate and comprehensive healthcare. Says Lorie Dickey, CRP (Certified Respiratory Therapist), RCP (Respiratory Care Practitioner), “When someone has difficulty breathing, it affects everything they do. It’s truly rewarding to hear how we have touched the lives of our patients in big and small ways. Our team works together to give our patients hope, and we are so proud to see them succeed.” Joshua Wilhelm, RAE (Respiratory Account Executive), continues, “Patients are the heart and soul of what we do. Our job is to treat each patient with respect and dignity while providing care that will improve their quality of life. When patients need our services most, it can be a very difficult time for them. I am honored to be a part of my patients’ lives, and I know how much it means to them when we make their care a priority.”

Summing up his 30-year career serving patients, Robert Perea, CRP (Certified Respiratory Therapist), concluded, “Working with patients for decades has given me the unique opportunity to support people with a variety of health conditions from all backgrounds and walks of life. Each unique patient has a different need, whether it be educating them on their disease process, teaching them how to use their medical equipment, or just being there to hear their frustrations. Throughout the years, I have enjoyed helping my patients adjust to their new challenges, so they can get back to their quality of life. There are many patients I have met throughout the years who have inspired me, and I will never forget them.”
