Regional Outlook of Global Dog Food

North America accounted for the largest market in the Dog Food market. North America accounted for 38% of the worldwide market value. The rising rates of pet ownership and the expanding practice of treating pets like family members are the main factors driving the demand for dog food in the United States, the largest market in North America. Pet owners in the United States are looking for more upscale and specialty dog food products, such as those that meet particular age groups, dietary needs, or medical conditions. Due to consumer preferences for healthier options, there is a surge in the availability of premium and specialty dog food products. This has also increased the focus on natural and organic ingredients.
