from teaching to serving as an assistant superintendent for human resources. Additionally, Gail owned and operated Connections Counseling Center for several years and has been an adjunct professor for graduate counseling programs.

Beyond her educational career, Gail has a penchant for setting and achieving goals. From taking over her brother's paper route at age 11 to her recent foray into real estate investing, she thrives on personal accomplishments and continuous learning. Her entrepreneurial journey includes forming a company, hosting informative network meetings, coaching others, and sharing her experiences through blogging and speaking at regional workshops and seminars.

Gail firmly believes in the power of sharing experiences and storytelling. She understands that people seek connection and inspiration from successful individuals. As the founder of Authentic Connection Experts, she is dedicated to helping others shape their personal narrative and lead a life rich in meaning, purpose, and success. Gail believes that each person possesses unique skills, talents, and beliefs, and with guidance, support, and education, they can connect the dots to create a purposeful life.
