MIAMI BEACH, FLORIDA, UNITED STATES, February 8, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- The Foundation for Talent Transformation is pleased to announce a transformative partnership with the International Coach Federation (ICF) to offer a suite of free online assessments designed to foster self-awareness, relationship building, and personal and professional development.

The Foundation for Talent Transformation helps people thrive and communities flourish.

The International Coaching Federation (ICF) is the world's largest organization for coaches.

This initiative represents a significant step forward in coaching and talent development, providing free tools that align with the ICF's mission to advance the coaching profession and uphold the highest ethical standards.

Our collaboration with the ICF reflects a shared commitment to provide ICF members with resources to help them and their clients thrive.”

Eric Shepherd

Talent Transformation's assessments are powerful tools that actively engage users in learning social-emotional and transformational skills. Assessments demand cognitive effort and active participation, unlike passive learning methods like watching videos or reading articles. When engaged, individuals are not just ticking boxes but embarking on self-discovery and introspection. Following the questionnaire, each participant receives a personalized guidance report that provides relevant insights immediately applicable to their personal and professional life. By integrating these assessments into their practice, ICF coaches can offer enriching experiences for their clients.

As part of this partnership, ICF-credentialed coaches and members are eligible for free memberships, granting them access to a range of professionally crafted and validated assessments. Furthermore, coaches can support the foundation's cause, gaining access to specialized coaching features and recognition in the organization's directory for a small monthly fee.

"We are thrilled to join forces with the International Coaching Federation in our shared commitment to empower coaches and positively impact individuals seeking growth and transformation," said Foundation for Talent Transformation President Eric Shepherd. "Our collaboration with the ICF reflects a shared commitment to provide ICF members with resources to help them and their clients thrive."
