

GoPlugable Launches Island of Ireland's First EV Home Charger Sharing Marketplace

GoPlugable, the island of Ireland's first EV home charger-sharing platform, launches its mobile app after a successful beta phase.

BELFAST, UNITED KINGDOM, February 12, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- GoPlugable, the pioneering EV home charger-sharing platform has announced the official launch of its mobile application-based marketplace following a highly successful beta testing phase, marking a significant milestone as the island of Ireland's first EV home charger sharing initiative.

Co-founded just 11 months ago by Queen's University Belfast and Dundalk Institute of Ireland alumni – Maebh Reynolds and Andrine Mendez - and supported by local enterprises including Enterprise Ireland and Techstart NI, GoPlugable has quickly gained traction in the sustainable transportation sector. With a mission to make EV charging affordable, convenient, and accessible, GoPlugable is committed to being all-Ireland's largest private EV charging network, connecting and empowering communities, and promoting sustainability in the EV industry.

With GoPlugable, we're providing a solution to boost accessibility to EV ownership and create a positive change towards a greener future”

Maebh Reynolds

During its beta testing phase, the GoPlugable app saw over 200 downloads and received overwhelmingly positive feedback from users, demonstrating strong interest and engagement from the community. This successful beta testing phase has been instrumental in refining the user experience, ensuring a seamless transition to the official launch.

Commenting on the launch, Maebh Reynolds, CEO and co-founder of GoPlugable expressed: "Maebh Reynolds, CEO and co-founder of GoPlugable expressed: "We're delighted to be taking this next step forward in revolutionising EV charging on the island of Ireland. We're proud to be addressing the needs of over 37% of new EV drivers who currently lack access to an EV home charger. With GoPlugable, we're providing a solution to boost accessibility to EV ownership and create a positive change towards a greener future. We're grateful for the support of our local enterprise ecosystems and the enthusiastic response from the EV community. As we look ahead in transportation, GoPlugable is leading the way with a practical and forward-looking approach that fits what people and the environment need."
