They are rich in essential vitamins and minerals, including vitamins E, K, B6, magnesium, phosphorus, zinc, and selenium, contributing to their health growth. Besides this, cashews are a good source of monounsaturated and polyunsaturated fatty acids, which help in the improvement of health.

Additionally, cashews contain lower fat levels compared to other nuts, with a significant portion being heart-healthy fats. Apart from this, cashews possess antioxidant properties, aiding in the prevention of oxidative stress and inflammation.
