In the spotlight of this grand event, paying homage to Harriet Tubman becomes an imperative celebration. Furthermore, it commemorates the first anniversary of her distinguished role in presiding over the naming ceremony for Prime Minister Ralph Gonsalves in the picturesque Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. Prepare to revel in the dynamic tapestry of history and achievement on this extraordinary afternoon, just 12 days before the commencement of LA Fashion Week.

Prepare to be deeply moved as Princess Eulogia, a survivor of domestic violence, takes the stage, passionately declaring that Ancestry, History, and Legacy are not just crucial but form the very essence of our existence. In a resounding call to action, she emphasizes the urgency of delving into these profound topics while we're with the wisdom of our elders. Gone are the days of secrecy with the powerful proclamation, 'Speak nothing of this day.' Brace yourselves for a transformative journey as Princess Eulogia champions the cause of generational healing and understanding, providing awe-inspiring platforms that resonate with the timeless truths our ancestors cherished.

Esteemed figures such as California State Commissioner Andre Parvenu, CEO of One News SVG, Demion McTair, Blair Hayse's Girl on Fire Magazine, and the Rev. Camille Bennett, founder of "Project Say Something," stand united as prominent supporters of this distinguished event. Their commitment underscores the significance and prestige of our cause.
