

Japan's Water Treatment Market Set to Double by 2031, Reaching US$ 18.74 Billion

CHICAGO, UNITED STATES, February 15, 2024

[illegible]

Japan's commitment to environmental sustainability and public health is evident through its world-leading wastewater treatment capabilities. The nation boasts one of the highest wastewater treatment rates globally, successfully processing over 90% of its wastewater. This achievement not only highlights Japan's dedication to preserving its natural resources but also showcases its advanced technological infrastructure in managing water resources sustainably.
