2024 Tour Announced

The five-track EP showcases Sophie's gorgeous vocals, reminiscent of Florence Welsh, as they soar effortlessly over folky, guitar driven baselines.

To The River was produced by Alex Dorsten and recorded in his home studio. In September, the anthemic title track, "To The River", produced, mixed and mastered by Alex Dorsten premiered on Americana Highways who said the siblings, "...create emotionally powerful and haunting songs, and this one is a fine, characteristic example. Nice layered playing and a steady rhythm pin it down." The song features Sophie on vocals and guitar; Alex on guitar, drums and cymbals.

Last year the duo released a hauntingly electronic-driven re-imagining of Alice Cooper's 1976 song "I Never Cry" The track was recorded as an homage to Cooper, a longtime Phoenix area resident, and the song's co-writer, the late guitarist Dick Wagner.

Dorsten has numerous ties to both. Sophie works at Cooper's Solid Rock teen center, where she gives vocal lessons and teaches a songwriting class. Alex has been a judge for the Alice Cooper “Proof is in the Pudding” competition, the most well-known music and dance competition in Arizona.

Dorsten has been busy since 2020, playing shows, releasing singles, and winning awards. In 2020, Sophie was the runner up for the Radio WigWam Online Radio Awards for Best Female Artist. In 2021, Dorsten won Best American Indie Act 2021 from Radio WigWam, they won a World Songwriting Award for Best Music Production for “Until June,” and Best Indie Song for “Sea Salt” and Best Indie song “Until June” for the fall 2021 Clouzine International Music Awards.
