"Gregg is one of those rare sports lawyers, whose time is focused almost exclusively on sports matters," said Holt Hackney, the publisher of Hackney Publications.

"Whether it's a matter in the professional sports world, collegiate athletics, or even a high-profile case involving a high school athlete, Gregg has a long history of effectively representing his clients."

Clifton is a partner in the Phoenix office of Lewis Brisbois, chair of the firm's Collegiate & Professional Sports Law Practice, and a member of the Entertainment, Media & Sports Practice.

He has extensive experience in the collegiate and professional sports world. Clifton has advised numerous professional franchises on general labor and employment issues, including Title III ADA regulatory compliance and wage and hour issues. He serves as lead counsel for several Major League Baseball teams in their salary arbitration matters and has represented NCAA and NAIA collegiate clients, including multiple college conferences and coaches regarding NLRB student-athlete classification issues, name, image and likeness legal issues, overall rules compliance, investigatory matters and in disciplinary hearings. In addition, he has handled Title

ABOUT HACKNEY PUBLICATIONS

Hackney Publications is the nation's leading publisher of sports law periodicals. The company was founded by journalist Holt Hackney. Hackney began his career as a sportswriter, before taking on the then-nascent sports business beat at Financial World Magazine in the late 1980s. A few years later, Hackney started writing about the law, managing five legal newsletters for LRP Publications. In 1999, he founded Hackney Publications. Today, Hackney publishes or co-publishes 24 sports law periodicals, including Sports Litigation Alert, which offers a searchable archive of more than 4,000 case summaries and articles. In addition, the Alert is used in more than 100 sports law classrooms any given semester.
