MIAMI, FL, USA, February 20, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- USPA Nationwide Security has uncovered a disturbing, new organized criminal network targeting US-based Christian youth pastors through an aggressive phishing scam. The phishing scam unfolds with the pastor receiving a personalized text message, alleging access to compromising photos and/or old online accounts, such as outdated dating profiles or other potentially compromising sites. The scammers, in a bid to exploit their victims, demand a small sum of money, typically ranging between $300 and $500, and insist on payment in Bitcoin to prevent traceability.

Making a payment to these criminals is only inviting them to up the ante”

“These criminal networks employ sophisticated tactics to hide their identities and conceal their locations and connection details,” warns Fitzgibbons, an investigator from USPA Nationwide Security. “We urge the public, especially the community leaders being targeted, to exercise extreme caution and refrain from engaging with these criminals.”

USPA Nationwide Security emphasizes the critical importance of not responding to these phishing attempts, as doing so may exacerbate the situation. Unfortunately, some individuals have broken under the pressure of harassment, responding to the scammers' demands.

“Making a payment to these criminals is only inviting them to up the ante,” Fitzgibbons said.

USPA Nationwide Security encourages anyone who has received phishing attempts of this nature to immediately report them to the Federal Trade Commission.
