"In 2024, employee wellness encompasses far beyond mere physical health perks. Emotional, financial, spiritual, mental, and social well-being are all integral aspects of individuals' lives, and humano is committed to offering benefits that address all these facets,” said Sarah O'Neill, VP of HR & Administration at humano. “DailyPay serves as a convenient avenue for staff to access financial resources and their earned wages instantly. By empowering employees with control over when they can access their pay, we have enabled them to prioritize what truly matters.”

Through DailyPay’s work tech platform, humano employees can have real-time access to their earned wages. This means employees can see exactly how much they are earning after completing a shift through the DailyPay app. With the additional pay transparency and choice and control over their earned pay, employees are more productive, more engaged, and more likely to take on additional shifts, according to research from Arizent.

The research also found that 82% of surveyed employees say DailyPay makes it easier to understand how much income they've earned each day, thus making it easier to make the most educated financial decisions to spend, save, or invest.

With DailyPay, humano has gained a competitive advantage in hiring and retention. Among its other benefits, are dental, medical, 401(k), paid time off (PTO) and telehealth offerings. A recent report found that 96% of employers who offer earned wage access say it helps them attract talent.
