Corky Curtis

Acara, a leading provider of home-based care services in South and Central Texas, announces the appointment of Corky Curtis as its new Chief People Officer, effective January 17, 2024. In this critical role, Mr. Curtis will be responsible for leading all aspects of human resources, including talent acquisition, onboarding, employee relations, learning and development, and culture building.

“As we continue to grow our company, attracting and retaining top talent is crucial to our success,” said Michael Thiel, Chief Executive Officer of Acara Healthcare. “We are thrilled to welcome Corky to Acara, as his extensive leadership experience and commitment to fostering a positive and empowering work environment align perfectly with our values.”

Mr. Curtis brings over 30 years of leadership expertise to Acara Healthcare. His journey began with a distinguished 20-year career in the US Army, where he honed his leadership skills in diverse and demanding situations. Transitioning to the corporate world, Mr. Curtis gained experience across all levels of Human Resources, building his knowledge in both tactical and strategic aspects.

“I am honored to serve the amazing leaders and employees of Acara Healthcare,” said Mr. Curtis. “Acara's mission to 'SERVE and ADVOCATE for the well-being of people in their home and community so that together we make a positive impact on their lives' resonates deeply with me.

My primary objective is to support those on the frontlines living out our mission by cultivating a culture of empowerment and belonging.”

Mr. Curtis holds an MBA with a focus on leadership and is currently pursuing his Doctorate in Strategic Leadership. His research delves into the impact of positive leadership on younger generations in the service industry, demonstrating his commitment to understanding and empowering the workforce of today and the future.
