Grammy nominated Raheem DeV Vaughn, Marcus Johnson and more.*

WASHINGTON, DC, USA, February 23, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Mayor Muriel Bowser and the Office of Cable Television, Film, Music, and Entertainment (OCTFME) are excited to announce the inaugural 'Jazz In The City,' an evening dedicated to the vibrant music and culture of the District as part of Black History Month. This free event will be held on Monday, February 26, 2024, at 6:00 PM at the Carlyle Room, located in the heart of downtown D.C.

The night offers exceptional music that celebrates our city's vibrant cultural scene and encourages residents to support downtown businesses as part of Mayor Bowser's #BeDowntown initiative.”

*LaToya Foster, OCTFME
Director*

'Jazz In The City' promises an unforgettable night, featuring a stellar lineup of musicians who embody the spirit and rhythm of the District. The event will showcase live performances by chart-topping jazz Grammy, Dove, ASCAP and Stellar award-winning producer and pianist Daniel Weatherspoon, keyboard virtuoso Marcus Johnson, the soulful Carly Harvey, pianist Amy K. Bormet, and the unique sounds of Crank Crusaders featuring Grammy nominated v. The evening will be hosted by radio personality Teresa Marie of Majic 102.3FM with beats by Lance DJ Lance Reynolds.

'Jazz In The City' is part of a broader series of activities and events taking place throughout the city during Black History Month. "Our events are a reflection of the diverse and dynamic culture that makes our city great. The inaugural 'Jazz In The City' is no exception," said LaToya Foster, OCTFME Director. "The night offers exceptional music that celebrates our history, our city's vibrant cultural scene and encourages residents to visit and support downtown businesses as part of Mayor Bowser's #BeDowntown initiative."

This evening of music and celebration is not only a testament to the District's enduring cultural heritage but also an opportunity to come together and enjoy the universal language of music.
