The PRO Achievement Awards are bestowed on an annual basis to recognize outstanding achievements by an individual and/or company that has worked to promote or enhance the professional remodeling industry.

The Superior Construction Services team understands that kids need safe and fun outdoor spaces to call their own. That's why they were eager to build a treehouse for six-year-old Kalli of Glen Arm, Maryland. Kalli spent two years receiving leukemia treatments, and her numerous hospital stays meant she did not get to experience many childhood joys — including playing outside, something many take for granted. She requested a treehouse from the Make-A-Wish® Mid-Atlantic foundation so she would have her own place to play and simply be a kid. Superior was eager to get involved in the project and make Kalli's wish come true. They also collaborated with other professionals along the way, including Barrons Lumber Company's Luke Wence and Brandon Morris, who donated all building materials, and Design for Change's Kathleen Soloway, who provided interior design services and various pieces of furniture to finalize the project.

A highlight of the project was the presence of Governor Larry Hogan at the unveiling of the treehouse. Governor Hogan's attendance underscored the importance of community projects and the impact of fulfilling the dreams of children facing serious health challenges. His support helped to elevate the project's visibility and highlight the collaborative effort between Superior Construction Services, Make-A-Wish® Mid-Atlantic, and other partners in bringing joy to Kalli's life.
