"At Altitude, we want to be a part of a community, not just serve it. We bring a number of jobs, create a culture, as well as provide an active environment for families to enjoy,” added Hinchman. “Our parks provide a safe space to come and be active. It’s a little break from the screens, and we love providing a venue for families to celebrate their child’s big day, end of a sports season, family meetup, or any occasion.”
