“Are our sandals more comfortable than our competitors?” asks Jacobs. “When it comes to support, style, and comfort, we’ll leave that to our happy customers to decide. We can’t wait for their reviews to roll in.”

In addition to four new sandal styles, Stegmann introduced a new color to its existing sandal line Ecrú, a soft natural white leather designed to style effortlessly with light spring and summer outfits. This color is available in the Layna Wedge and Louisa Slingback in addition to its four new sandal designs.

“As we continue to innovate and expand options based on our customer feedback, it’s important for our long-time fans to know that we are still prioritizing sustainability in our sourcing and production” Jacobs says.

Stegmann is known for its commitment to sustainability with products like the Eco Clog and 100% Vegan Maria Mule. The sandals are no exception. Made responsibly in Portugal, the lightweight cork soles are renewable, sourced responsibly and are paired with a recycled rubber traction outsole.
