NEW YORK, NEW YORK, UNITED STATES, February 28, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- Breaking barriers in the dance world, Valise De Danse, the brainchild of Suza Daniel Mondesir, announces the launch of an innovative dance luggage accessory designed to cater to the unique needs of dancers while championing inclusivity and empowerment in the dance community.

Suza Daniel Mondesir, a dedicated registered nurse and startup founder, was inspired to create Valise De Danse by her daughter's journey from childhood dancer to university dance major. As a dance mom enthusiast, the absence of diversity remained a common thread over the years that is still woven into the world of ballet today. Suza transformed her fear of Black and Brown children straying from ballet due to feeling excluded into a passion initiative for BIPOC dancers to feel represented and embraced.

Suza transformed her fear of Black and Brown children straying from ballet due to feeling excluded into a passion initiative for BIPOC dancers to feel represented and embraced.

"Watching my daughter dance since age 3, I haven't seen much inclusion in ballet, leading many BIPOC children to seek acceptance in other dance forms," says Mondesir. "This ongoing conversation requires actionable solutions. Valise De Danse aims to offer more than just luggage for dancers, but most importantly a sense of worth and empowerment."
