Quick Recap Of 2023

As the firm mentioned in the thank note, 2023 was a busy year for PAX Migration Australia. The team assisted many clients embarking on their migration journey and oversaw countless successful application outcomes. PAX Migration Australia prides itself on its technical skills and leadership in the migration industry, enabling its clients to have confidence they are in safe hands. This is crucial when dealing with immigration matters, given the complexity and frequency of changes to the law, especially in light of the significant reforms that were implemented in 2023, and further changes that are expected to be introduced going forward as foreshadowed in the new Migration Strategy.

Some of the changes that were implemented in 2023 included the introduction of a permanent residency pathway for all Subclass 482 Temporary Skill Shortage (TSS) visa holders and shortening the period to qualify for PR, as well as a new direct pathway to permanent residency for eligible New Zealand citizens. Visa processing for migrants sponsored by employers in regional Australia is also now the top visa processing priority for the Department of Home Affairs. This area is of particular interest to PAX Migration Australia as it is located in South Australia, which is considered a regional area. Further reforms are expected in 2024 and beyond, including a new 4-year temporary skilled worker visa, called the Skills in Demand visa to replace the TSS visa, which the Government intends to introduce.

In other exciting news, PAX Migration Australia welcomed a number of new staff members to its team in 2023! As it continues to grow its business, it actively seeks to recruit highly experienced Registered Migration Agents to the organisation. Its agents deliver a first-class service in assisting its clients to achieve their migration goals in Australia. The team is committed to technical excellence and providing superior service to its clients, a standout feature which sets PAX Migration Australia apart from other agents.

Co-Director, Constantine Paxinos, is currently the South Australian State President of the Migration Institute of Australia (MIA), and is on the Board of Directors, a wonderful honour and responsibility. Con takes an active role in assisting government and stakeholders in setting policy and immigration strategy. In May 2023, Con provided testimony to the Commonwealth Joint Standing Committee on Migration as part of the MIA delegation. The public hearing was convened to allow the Committee to ask questions and receive oral submissions into its inquiry 'Migration, Pathway to Nation Building.' Con spoke, in particular, about the importance of supporting regional Australia through migration policy.

Con was invited back to speak to the Joint Standing Committee in August 2023. He was asked about the best way forward for Labour Market Testing (which means advertising a position in Australia which an employer is seeking to fill in accordance with specified requirements to demonstrate that no suitably qualified and experienced Australian worker or eligible temporary visa holder is readily available to fill the nominated position). Con provided a detailed explanation of why a bottom up and top down approach is required to ensure that red tape is cut for businesses where possible, but to still retain flexibility in the system for niche shortages that arise in the economy that are difficult to predict.

Both of its Directors, Con and Christina Paxinos also attended the MIA Regional Migration Conference in May 2023. This was a great opportunity to meet with other migration practitioners, industry stakeholders and Government representatives from across the country and to hear their insights on regional migration. As the MIA National Vice President & South Australia Branch President, Con participated in a panel discussion on regional migration.

Con and Christina also attended the MIA Annual National Migration Conference in Sydney in October 2023. Con chaired a number of discussions at the conference. This event was a great opportunity for immigration advice professionals to come together to hear about and discuss current issues in migration.

PAX Migration Australia can assist with a range of visas and immigration matters, including Skilled Visas (Independent, State and Employer Sponsored), Partner Visas, Student Visas, Visitor Visas, Child, Parent & Business Visas as well as Appeals of Cancellation and Refusal decisions.
