Fighting for Hope

MC Law Group, LLC is committed to serving clients through even the most complex immigration cases.

“Many people don't understand how difficult it is to get a green card.”

Keeping Families Together
As a full-service law firm focused entirely on immigration, MC Law Group has experience winning cases across the spectrum of immigration law. From political asylum seekers to employment-based immigrants, every client is backed by an efficient and tenacious team with a track record of winning even the most challenging cases.

Mella finds herself drawn to cancellation of removal cases, which can end in residency for anyone who fulfills certain statutory requirements, such as 10 years of presence in the United States, consistent payment of taxes, and good moral character. These cases often involve immigrants with a child, spouse, or parent who is a U.S. citizen and who will likely die or suffer serious consequences should their caretaker be forced to leave the country.

“We had a recent case where a single mother from the Dominican Republic had a child with severe medical needs,” Mella explains. “She’s the child’s only caretaker, so his world would come crumbling down if he had to leave the country or was separated from his mother. It warmed my heart to see them so happy at the end of the case when I told them that their hard work paid off.”

“Cases like this show clients that they belong here,” she continues.

“These people are often living insecure existences, unsure of their future in the U.S. and fearful of the safety of their family. We give hope that they can be helped.”
