"This moment has been a long time coming. Tan and I are driven by a mutual dedication to our community and a profound appreciation for the role teachers play in shaping lives," McKernan said.

The 225 Bulletin Board will recognize the teachers who exceptionally impact their communities within and beyond the classroom. Individuals can participate by nominating a deserving teacher who embodies the spirit of community service.

Through his charity arm, Gordon Gives, McKernan has been committed to supporting children, families and neighborhoods in Baton Rouge. He first partnered with Fay in April 2022 to maximize his law firm's community outreach efforts and celebrate those who make a difference. The partnership has enabled them to collaborate on impactful projects, as they are both dedicated to charity and community service.

"We aim to shed light on the remarkable efforts of teachers who go above and beyond," said Fay. "Together, we'll recognize the unsung heroes in our schools and inspire others to join us in giving back."

Nominations for the 225 Bulletin Board are now open. Two winners will be selected each month from the nominations received. Those interested in participating can visit the website to submit their nomination.
