as a finalist for the NEXTY Award in the Regenerative category. At Recoup, we are dedicated to creating innovative products that champion resilience for people and the planet.” Co-Founder Siwat Siengsanaoh added “Studies show that about 75% of Americans are dehydrated each day. The gut health market is booming, but competitors are failing to address the most popular need state in beverage: hydration. This product fills a white space in the category and one that consumers are craving.”

About Recoup Beverage Inc.

Located in New York, NY, Recoup is a certified minority-owned and female-founded company with a mission to help people feel better and live well through plant-powered, modern remedies. Recoup uses clinically proven functional ingredients including organic ginger juice and sustainably harvested, organic maple tree water in its gut healthy hydration beverages. Recoup Beverage Inc. was founded by Siwat Siengsanaoh and Susan Hartman. Siwat spent the first three years of life in the hospital and went through ten major surgeries before he was twelve. His mom’s ginger-based home remedies played a big part in his recovery and were the initial inspiration for Recoup. He combed through medical research to find the clinically proven dose of ginger to use in each recovery beverage. Co-founder, Susan Buckwalter Hartman, is an avid athlete with a background in natural products. She wanted a clean-label beverage she could enjoy after yoga or surfing that went beyond hydration. Together they created Recoup’s Gut Healthy Hydration products. Recoup's current selection of hydration + health beverages are available at Mom's Organic Market, Kimberton Whole Foods, other natural grocers and Amazon.com.
