

Provista Announces Community Health Center Channel Partnership with CHCollective

IRVING, TX, UNITED STATES, March 14, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Provista proudly announces a channel partnership with CHCollective, a new health center-owned and operated LLC built to ensure America's health centers secure the full benefit of their Provista affiliation. Provista, the nation's largest non-acute healthcare group purchasing organization, selected CHCollective among other potential community health center channels.

Says Micah Smith, General Manager with Provista, "We have had a long standing, mutually beneficial relationship with CHCollective. They are a specialized extension of our team bringing savings and supply chain solutions to community health centers nationwide. We look forward to continuing to support them in their mission to support health centers and their partner networks through our vast contract portfolio."

With over 1,100 community health centers currently enrolled as Provista members, most health centers already have access to a contract portfolio boasting the deepest discounts on the widest range of supplies, equipment, products, and services. Now, by aligning with CHCollective to help manage this important class of trade, Provista is confident that health centers will continue to access top-tier vendor relationships and enjoy substantial cost savings without disruption.

"The CHCollective team is thrilled to embark on this journey with health centers, working collaboratively to uphold the critical care they provide in our communities," said Danny Hawkins, CEO at CHCollective.

Existing health center clients need not take any action to maintain their vendor relationships and cost-effective solutions. CHCollective is fully prepared to address any inquiries and provide dedicated support to meet the evolving needs of health centers. CHCollective's team is comprised of individuals who have extensive experience with both health centers and group purchasing.
