Bathtub refers to a large vessel for holding water in which a person may bathe. A bathtub is generally placed in the restroom as stage alone institution or in confluence with a shower. Utmost ultramodern bathtubs are made of fiberglass or Acrylic, but some may be available in ceramic or over steel or cast iron and sometimes a leakproof wood. Ultramodern bathtubs may have wastewater out points and include a tap on top. Generally, many bathtubs are in recent gular shape but with the arrival of acrylic thermoformed cataracts, further shapes are getting available.
