representation to his clients from 2009 to 2023.

Ratish is a past president of the Rutgers School of Law Alumni Association and served as Editor in Chief of the Rutgers Computer and Technology Law Journal. Prior to his legal career, he worked as a journalist for The Record of New Jersey, New York Daily News and Newsday. It was this early experience as a reporter covering local politics, government, crime, and education that ignited his newfound interest in the legal profession, prompting him to change careers.

Born and raised in Bergen County, NJ, Ratish has deep roots in the Garden State. He currently resides in Glen Ridge, Essex County, NJ with his wife Patricia and their two children, Lillian and Aiden. Ratish's connection to his community underscores his commitment to serving the needs of clients with integrity, compassion, and unwavering dedication.
