

Chris McGuinn to Speak at The Coalition for FTS' Inaugural Conference on Lowering Barriers to Addiction Treatment

WASHINGTON, DC, UNITED STATES, March 19, 2024 /EINPresswire.com/ -- More Than 28 is excited to announce Chris McGuinn's participation as a panelist at The Coalition for Families, Teens, and Students' inaugural conference. This April, in Baltimore, he will be engaging in pivotal discussions about lowering barriers to addiction treatment and advocating for insurance reform to make these crucial services more accessible and affordable. This event promises to be an invaluable opportunity for sharing insights and strategies to combat the opioid crisis.

We look forward to contributing to this meaningful dialogue and learning from fellow experts dedicated to making a difference.

With a distinguished career at addiction treatment organizations and the U.S. Department of Labor, McGuinn brings a wealth of knowledge and expertise to the panel. He will discuss innovative strategies for lowering barriers to addiction treatment and advocating for pivotal changes in insurance payment models to enhance affordability and accessibility for all.

The conference will feature discussions on efficacious practices, programs, and policies that have shown promise in mitigating opioid poisonings and deaths and have facilitated optimal health outcomes in treatment and recovery. McGuinn's participation underscores the event's commitment to addressing the fentanyl-opioid crisis through actionable solutions and expert collaboration.

Attendees can look forward to a comprehensive agenda with multiple panels exploring core
