A division of RSG International, a woman-led and Canadian-based global leader in the road safety infrastructure sector, RoadBlock Solutions aims to become a leading provider and distributor of a variety of safety infrastructure devices for roads and work zones.

“RoadBlock Solutions is poised for exponential growth in the years to come and will work to enhance the way business is done in this industry, leveraging decades of experience and providing customers and road users with products that meet and exceed the highest safety standards,” explains Ryan Samek, who officially stepped into his new role on March 1st.

Leveraging decades of experience, RoadBlock Solutions is committed to safety, reliability, and customer service. The organization provides solutions for roadway safety infrastructure, specializing in road safety product sales and rental services focused on crash cushions, steel barriers, concrete barriers, and supplemental safety products for the North American market.

"Above all else, this group brings a burning desire to change the way road safety is viewed in North America and beyond," adds Samek. "At the end of the day, we want to see everyone get home safely. That is our commitment to all road users and workers."

As previously announced, Gary Lallo, Joe Yodock, Lee Stuart, and Roger Spencer have joined RoadBlock Solutions, all of whom bring decades of experience and proven track records of industry excellence.
