It is important to increase awareness and understanding of “Mālama Hawai‘i” (which means “to take care of Hawaii”) in promoting responsible tourism, where caring for Hawaii’s natural resources, traditions, and culture equally among visitors is a key. With support and cooperation from HTJ, HIS Hawaii will consider the respective roles and responsibilities of the local community (residents), tourists, and tourism workers, to focus and continue efforts on nature conservation, cultural perpetuity, and the local community. Furthermore, we will support Hawaii’s tourism dependent economy and aim toward building a sustainable community while maintaining and strengthening Hawaii's brand through this partnership. Essentially, we will promote regenerative tourism to Hawaii as we strive to improve the satisfaction of both the tourists and residents, as well as to preserve a better future for our islands.
