Nationwide Reach, Local Impact

Despite being headquartered in Dallas, Texas, Healthcare Art Consulting & Quality Art House have made significant inroads into markets across the United States, from bustling metropolitan areas to serene rural locales. Their commitment to understanding and integrating local culture, history, and values into their projects has been a key factor in their widespread success, enabling them to create spaces that resonate deeply with clients and their communities alike. Director of Design, Mercedes Burton, shared “we often incorporate local landscapes and themes into our projects to help the visitors of the facility feel connected to the artwork, this also allows us to learn about different communities across the county, which is rewarding.”

A Legacy of Diverse Projects

Healthcare Art Consulting & Quality Art House's portfolio boasts a wide array of projects that underscore their versatility and skill in tailoring art solutions to meet the specific needs of each client. From state-of-the-art healthcare facilities seeking to foster healing environments, to corporate offices aiming to enhance their brand identity and employee wellbeing, the firm has consistently demonstrated its ability to transform spaces through thoughtfully curated art collections and installations. "Our primary product is great service, and we can offer that to clients in every state" added the firms' President, Sara Beth Joyner.
