Mining stock certificate for Alta No. 2 Copper Mining (Del Norte County, Calif.), notable because it's signed as company secretary by California author Bret Harte (est. $3,000-$8,000).

"This sale closely follows a timed auction two weeks ago that saw a lot of action, with some good rarities as well as some great buys," said Fred Holabird of Holabird Western Americana Collections, LLC. "We find ourselves moving the rare collectibles into our live sales, and the rare lesser expensive items to the timed sales, which are getting more popular by the month."

Our April auction, live and online, features hundreds of lots up for grabs, featuring many one-of-a-kind discoveries and great rarities.”

He added, "April is no exception, with hundreds of lots up for grabs, featuring many one-of-a-kind discoveries and great rarities. When I write introductions to these sales, it gets harder and harder to know where to start and how to structure the essay because of the variety of collectible genres present – at least sixty different categories." Start times all four days will be 8 am Pacific.

Day 1, on Saturday, April 6th, will contain 563 lots of art, jewelry, Native Americana, maps, World's Fair/Expositions, books, autographs, photographs, tools and the Wilcox photo archive.

The Wilcox archive, lot 1062, comprises hundreds of photographs taken circa 1860-1864 by Dr. Timothy Wilcox, an Army physician assigned to many of the Western forts, especially Fort Huachuca in Arizona (est. $5,000-$15,000). Also offered will be lots 1062-1064, a remarkable discovery of early 20th century original prints by the famous Western artist Frederic Remington, sold out of Remington's own gallery, with his gallery card still attached (estimates $500-$1,500).

Lot 1446 is a circa 1660, full edition copy of Il Capitolo dei Frati, handwritten in ink by Jesuit monk Sebastiano Chiesa. The book was highly controversial for its time and was banned by the Catholic Church. Just owning a copy was punishable by death (est. $8,000-$3,000). Lot 1472 is an archive of photos and personal papers from Oliver Parker Fritchie, a visionary who owned electrical vehicle and wind power businesses in the early 20th century (est. $5,000-$10,000).

Lot 1298 is possibly the first known original map of Fort Weisport in Pennsylvania, drawn circa 1756. The fort was built with the help of Benjamin Franklin during the French and Indian War, in response to an Indian massacre in what is now Leighton. Lot 1524 is a large glass negative collection of photographs, probably unpublished, of one or more trips from Vancouver, British Columbia, north by steamer to the mining camps of the Fraser River region, during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. The plates are fragile but high quality (both lots est. $5,000-$10,000).

Lot 1460 is a circa 1880 mounted original albumen photograph of the 13-man posse that was sent from Tucson to Yuma, Arizona to arrest one of the Goldwater brothers for fraud in a suspected major retail goods swindle (est. $2,500-$7,500). Lot 1280 is a spectacular set of five maps showing California history from 1604-1767. One map shows California as an island (est. $600-$1,200). This map is part of a large offering of Gold Rush and early maps from two prominent collections.

There are several stunning squash blossom necklaces featuring dark blue turquoise in the sale, including lot 1194, a possibly 1960 Navajo example by J. Long (est. $2,500-$4,000). Deep blue turquoise has become harder to find in today's mines. Lot 1369 is an 1883 copy of Edwards' Tourists Guide and Directory on the Truckee Basin, compiled by Charles D. Irons (est. $2,000-$4,000). The guide is a rare early directory of Lake Tahoe and the Truckee region of California.

Day 2, on Sunday, April 7th, will feature 580 lots of 3D collectibles, clocks, musical items, furnishings, clothing, collectibles and flatware, advertising, general store, bottles, saloon, gaming, tobacciana, cowboy, entertainment, circus, toys, sports, transportation and railroad, political, military, firearms and weaponry (subject to federal regulations) and general ephemera.

Lot 2218 is a circa 1870s carte de visite of Buffalo Bill Cody, made by the Theatrical Photography Company and depicting the Wild West showman in his younger years. The CDV is in a frame of 4 inches by 5 inches (est. $10,000-$20,000). Lots 2289-2293 are stock certificates issued to, and Lot 2200 is a pair of original "Wanted" handbills/posters offering a $1,600 reward regarding a stagecoach robbery and murder in the Arizona Territory, along with an 1883 letter signed by sheriff Robert S. Paul, written from his office in Tucson (est. $4,000-$6,000). Lot 2393 is a near-mint example of a marked Virginia & Truckee Nevada railroad lantern from around 1915. The globe is etched, "V. & T. Ry" and the very top is marked with embossing (est. $1,500-$2,500). It is one of about 50 railroad lanterns in the sale.

Day 3, on Saturday, April 13th, will showcase 517 lots of antique and vintage stocks and bonds, banking, mining, collectibles, industry and oil, railroad and transportation, and miscellaneous.

Of the many rare old stocks and bonds up for bid, one standout example is the mining stock certificate for Alta No. 2 Copper Mining (Del Norte County, Calif.), notable because it's signed as company secretary by the famous California author Bret Harte, the author of Luck of Roaring Camp and other tales. The 1863 certificate is #162, issued for 50 shares (est. $3,000-$8,000).

Day 4, on Sunday, April 14th, will close out the auction with 666 lots of minerals, mining, artifacts, ephemera, scales, numismatics, tokens, philatelic, stamps, covers, Wells Fargo/Express, and postcards.
