We believe that education is key to empowering individuals and families to navigate the challenges associated with Parkinson's effectively.”

Jeanette Palmer, Owner of Right at Home - Northwest Suburban

Unfortunately, Parkinson's disease affects millions worldwide, and understanding its early signs, symptoms, and causes is vital for effective management and support. Right at Home is honored to host Jessica Bartsch from the Parkinson's Foundation - Midwest Chapter as our speaker for this enlightening event.

Bartsch brings a wealth of knowledge and experience in Parkinson's advocacy and support. Her presentation will cover various aspects of Parkinson's disease, including identifying early warning signs, understanding symptoms, and exploring the underlying causes. Attendees will gain invaluable insights into how to recognize the onset of Parkinson's and how to provide meaningful support to those affected.

"Our goal with this community speaker session is to raise awareness and foster understanding about Parkinson's disease," said Jeanette Palmer, owner of Right at Home agency. "We believe that education is key to empowering individuals and families to navigate the challenges associated with Parkinson's effectively."

Whether you are a caregiver, healthcare professional, or someone interested in learning more about Parkinson's disease, this session promises to be informative and insightful.

Join us on Thursday, April 11th, at The Empty Corner in Arlington Heights, and be a part of this important conversation. Together, we can make a difference in the lives of those impacted by Parkinson's disease.

To RSVP for our event or for more information, please contact Stacy Lentz at (847) 396.9000 or stacy@rahnw.com. This session is free, however RSVPs are required to ensure enough seating.
