Every book, starting with Dew Falls Lightly, will delight children and really bring the message home that fairies come in every shape, color, and from every culture.”

Author Mary Brodsky

pleased to announce the publication of “Dew Falls Lightly,” the first in a series of ten young reader children’s books, by beloved author Mary Brodsky. The series, Fairies of Harmony Grove, features main characters from around the world and is lovingly created to offer children ten down-to-earth fairies that are from different cultures around the world.

Contrary to the cookie-cutter “perfect” looking fairies found in today’s children’s books, author Mary Brodsky created her first character, Dew, featuring a girl with glasses, that will share a universally relatable and powerful image for young children everywhere.

“I am a mother and grandmother, and I knew that I wanted to give children everywhere the chance to see magical fairies who looked like them, which is a very empowering message to share with young readers,” noted author Mary Brodsky. “Every book, starting with Dew Falls Lightly, will delight children and really bring the message home that fairies come in every shape, color, and from every culture.”

The gorgeous illustrations in “Dew Falls Lightly” and all the upcoming ten books are designed by a gifted watercolor artist, and reinforce the importance of helping others and understanding the significance of personal roles. Diversity is the overarching theme here, with each book teaching children the beauty of cultures from around the world.

Dew is the fairy in charge of providing the morning dew in Harmony Grove and the story begins with Dew flying through the air with little regard for her surroundings because she is late to perform her daily responsibility. Brodsky writes, “The little fairy known as Dew was late. The morning was on its way and she hadn't even begun to prepare for it. She must get below the waterfall and fill her tiny teardrop wand with the magical healing dew water from the milky pool beneath."

Dew Falls Lightly is a powerful lesson for young children about the beauty that we all have inside of us.

"The most important thing we can do for ourselves is to own our actions and take care of how we share them with others," said author Mary Brodsky. "Then, we find the happiness we are giving, as it comes right back to us."
