With inflation steadily on the rise and home prices at an all-time high, savvy buyers desperately scour the internet for the latest advice, and deals, to finance their dream home. But, imagine being able to add a coupon, to the financing mix, of your home purchase. Thanks to Qroople you can!

Qroople, an online platform that touts their service as the world's most valuable real estate coupon, lists offers of up to 20% off from real estate agents, and mortgage lenders, as they grapple to gain access to your business, and dollars, in today's high-interest, inflationary marketplace.

Upstate real estate businessman, Art Jackson, immediately realized the sales opportunity and added a Qroople coupon, as an additional offering, for potential homeowners. “Qroople was an easy decision”, says Jackson. “We’re in the business of assisting struggling families and adding the Qroople coupon is another layer of help we can offer clients”.

Plus, Jackson likes the fact that the Qroople platform gives him access to a global audience. “We owner-finance, regardless of past credit or citizenship status”, states Jackson, “This is a great venue for us”.

Here’s how it works; private sellers of real estate, including brokers, estate agents, mortgage lenders, property developers, and builders, post cash-back coupons for potential home buyers on the Qroople platform, which is now available in 197 countries.

Potential homeowners simply search the website for coupons, in their desired location, for additional savings on their home purchase, just like any other coupon. Visit Qroople.com for more details.
