We hope our partnerships with organizations like Miracle City show other businesses that giving back can and should be a part of the business model as it can initiate lasting change in the world.”

One of WorkLodge's notable charitable endeavors is its partnership with Miracle City, a project by Compassion United org. When the city of Conroe donated 5 acres of land to Compassion United to use for various community initiatives, WorkLodge knew they had to be involved. With programs such as upskilling the homeless and providing transitional housing, WorkLodge is proud to invest in the self sustaining village being built at Miracle City.

Another significant collaboration for WorkLodge is with Love Does, a non-profit based out of California that reaches the world. Led by Bob Goff, renowned author of a book by the same name. Despite being a small contributor to Goff's projects, WorkLodge's donations have had a substantial impact. From helping build pavements and roads as well as providing lighting to students at the Love Does school, to now investing in a new University breaking ground in the same area, WorkLodge remains dedicated to supporting Goff's vision of creating positive change in Uganda.

Mike Thakur, Owner of WorkLodge, emphasizes the company's commitment to helping communities: "At WorkLodge, we believe in the power of meaningful community initiatives. We hope our partnerships with organizations like Miracle City and Bob Goff's Love Does show other businesses that giving back can and should be a part of the business model as it can initiate lasting change in the world."

In addition to providing luxurious office spaces, WorkLodge also offers meeting rooms and vibrant coworking spaces Houston, TX, where professionals from diverse backgrounds come together to collaborate, network, and thrive.
