

Abbove, the wealth planning technology platform listed among the top 100 WealthTech companies in the world

LONDON, LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, April 3, 2024

/EINPresswire.com/ -- For the third consecutive year, Abbove (formerly called PaxFamilia), a wealth planning technology platform, has been featured in the prestigious WealthTech100 list published by FinTech Global, which selects the most innovative solutions in the global wealth management software market.

A panel of analysts and experts scrutinized research on 1,200 companies to identify the 100 finalists to make the industry-leading list. The research on these companies was compiled by FinTech Global.

Abbove stood out for its capacity to develop a technology platform that connects wealth owners, wealth advisors, and estate planners around a comprehensive and dynamic wealth information database. The platform is not just a collaborative and engaging tool; it's engineered to integrate seamlessly into various wealth management ecosystems offering the possibility for organisations to scale holistic wealth and goal-based advice services to their client base.

Abbove is the first pan-European wealth planning platform capable of operating across diverse tax legislations. 1,000+ wealth advisors distribute our technology to 32,000+ wealthy families in the EU.”

Guillaume Desclée

Abbove's technology serves both large-scale entities, from private and small banks to specialized organizations, such as family offices. More than 1.000 wealth advisors use its technology, providing the seamless tool to 32.000 high-net-worth families across Europe.

CEO Guillaume Desclée comments:

“Being featured in this list underscores the unique aspect of Abbove. In a market of wealth and tax tech software populated by local champions, scaling a value proposition across diverse tax legislations remains a challenge. Abbove addresses this by building a standard of wealth information at a multinational level that can be utilised by external estate planning and taxation tools in the countries where the platform is expanding. Abbove is currently the first true pan-European wealth planning platform.”

The company continues its ambitious development with a bright future ahead. Having already reached its financial break point and self-financing its growth, Abbove's goal is to double its recurring revenue within the next three years.
