Design is about more than aesthetics; it's about enhancing lives and fostering a sense of belonging.”

Erick Mitiken, Architect

tells a story of profound courage and architectural ingenuity. Designed by local architect Erick Mikiten, this extraordinary residence is not merely a structure but a beacon of hope and a sanctuary of love for a family facing unimaginable challenges.

Mikiten, hailed as a hero within the architectural and disability communities, embarked on a journey unlike any other when approached by the family. Their young child battles a degenerative condition, prompting the family to seek a new living environment tailored to their child's unique needs. With unwavering determination and boundless empathy, Mikiten embraced the challenge, crafting a home that seamlessly integrates accessibility, comfort, and beauty.

In Mikiten's words, "Design is about more than aesthetics; it's about enhancing lives and fostering a sense of belonging. It was immensely rewarding to collaborate with the family to create a space that meets their practical requirements and enriches their daily lives while creating a sculptural, light-filled urban sanctuary."

The owner echoes this sentiment, expressing profound gratitude for Mikiten's vision's transformational impact. "Our home is more than just a dwelling; it's a testament to the incredible power of thoughtful design. Thanks to Erick's team's dedication and expertise, our entire family enjoys the serenity this house creates. We couldn't be happier with the results."

Visitors to the AIA East Bay Home Tours will have the privilege of experiencing firsthand the profound impact of architecture on the human spirit. Guided by the owner and Mikiten himself, attendees will embark on a journey of inspiration and discovery, witnessing the transformative potential of design in action.
