At 18, Alan Walker soared to international fame with his breakthrough hit, "Faded," amassing billions of YouTube views and dominating global charts. This success earned him a BRIT Awards nomination for Song of the Year and a Norwegian Grammy win in the same category. Subsequent releases like "Alone" and "Sing Me to Sleep" further solidified his presence in electronic music. Building a massive social following, he continued to release successful singles, collaborating with artists such as Ava Max, Hans Zimmer, Noah Cyrus, Sia, Bruno Mars, and Coldplay. His debut album, "Different World," topped charts in late 2018, followed by the sophomore release, "World of Walker," in 2021, accumulating a combined Spotify stream count of nearly 6 billion.

Alan has amassed a remarkable track record, performing at 650 headlining shows and festivals, including renowned events like Coachella and Tomorrowland. In late 2022, Alan launched his third studio album, "Walkerverse," followed by a tour across Europe and North America.

In 2023, Alan Walker marked a career-defining moment with the grand unveiling of Walkerworld. On November 11th, he introduced a multilayered musical theme park experience, featuring a 10-track album with features like Steve Aoki, Daya, Vikkstar and Ali Gatie. Notably, new songs will be added every month throughout 2024, enriching the immersive journey for fans. This ambitious venture encompasses an arena tour starting with a 7-show series in China, and a playable theme park within UEFN, Fortnite, released on December 12th.
