Chris Bryan Moneymaker is a businessman, philanthropist and World Champion Poker player. At the time of his famous poker win he was working as an accountant and part time restaurant employee. Chris decided to try his luck in an $86 online poker satellite tournament to try to earn a seat in the Main Event at the WSOP. He won that $10,000 entry seat, and what happened next is poker history.

Chris went on to win the Main Event. The incredible coincidence that Chris's last name symbolized the hopes and aspirations of all poker players, to be a profitable poker player and a money maker caught the attention of news outlets, and became a household name across the country and the world. The news stories and coverage that were generated from this underdog story of a man investing $86 and winning $2.5 million made tournament poker so popular that it has grown into one of the largest participation competitions of any before it.
