Miranda Helmer, VP, Innovation Discovery at The Clorox Company said, “Innovation transcends functions. It thrives in the spaces between disciplines. If you're not engaging across functions, you're missing out on true innovation. That's why I'm eagerly anticipating the interdisciplinary interactivity at FEI 2024.”

Held annually in Boston, FEI: Front End of Innovation 2024 takes a look across industry landscapes for a fresh view of the latest technologies, people and strategies fueling the evolution of new product design and development and disrupting the status quo.

Featuring an expertly curated, immersive agenda, the FEI 2024 program offers a 360-degree view of innovation's latest trends and developments, while ensuring effective, cross-collaboration through interdisciplinary roundtables alongside cross-industry sessions throughout the three-day agenda.

Gus Valen, CEO of the Valen Group said, “The FEI agenda this year [2024] is truly remarkable, covering all the hot-button issues top of mind for innovators. From collaboration to AI to people and talent, I'm eager to dive into the learning, sharing, and the collaborative spirit that defines this event. Here's to another inspiring and insightful FEI.”

The graphic is a vertical rectangular poster with a dark blue background. On the right side, there is a stylized profile of a human head facing left, composed of glowing blue and white dots and lines, suggesting a digital or neural network. The text is white and teal. At the top left, 'FEI' is in large white letters, followed by 'FRONT END OF INNOVATION' in smaller white letters. Below this, the main title 'SUPERCHARGE INNOVATION: CORPORATE CHANGEMAKERS UNITE' is written in large, bold, white capital letters. Underneath the title, the dates and location 'June 10-12, 2024', 'Omni Boston Hotel at the Seaport', and 'Boston' are listed in smaller white text. A teal button with the text 'REGISTER NOW' in white is positioned below the location information. At the bottom, a line of text describes the event as an expertly curated, interactive, interdisciplinary event.
