The Resistance Units are a network of activists and supporters of the People's Mojahedin Organization of Iran (PMOI/MEK). These Resistance Units have been at the forefront of challenging the Iranian regime's repressive measures and keeping the flame of protests and resistance alive across the country.

In Tehran, Resistance Unit members installed a poster of Maryam Rajavi along with the first article of the 10-point plan, which declares the NCRI's commitment to the sovereignty of the people as opposed to unelected rulers:

"No to the mullahs' rule. Yes to the people's sovereignty in a republic founded on universal suffrage and pluralism." This bold statement directly challenges the current theocratic regime and its undemocratic practices.

Also in Tehran, the Resistance Units installed posters reiterating the 10-Point Plan's support of a secular government:

"Separation of religion and state, and freedom of religions and faiths." Their placards also reiterated the NCRI's commitment to restoring Iran's environment: "Protection and rehabilitation of the environment, which has been massacred under the rule of the mullahs."

In Rasht, the Resistance Units installed a banner with the eighth article of the 10-point plan, which commits to a market economy that prevents the government from taking hold of the country's key economic institutions, as has happened during the shah and mullahs' regimes:
