“We want to use our platform to create awareness about critical issues like workplace violence so that we can work together toward a solution. Mary Beth is a thought leader on the topic and we’re delighted to have her lead this series as the host with other nurse leaders, physicians, and experts as guests,” says Saul Marquez, CEO of Outcomes

Rocket.

"Creating a safe and healthy work environment for healthcare professionals and patients is crucial to providing the best possible care. This series on workplace violence in healthcare is a call to action for leaders and practitioners to recognize and address the issue. By sharing insights from experts in the field, we aim to provide actionable strategies and resources to improve safety and support healing," said Mary Beth Kingston.

The series includes the following episodes:

1. Tackling Workplace Violence in Healthcare with Mary Beth Kingston, CNO Advocate Health
2. Combatting Bullying and Incivility in Healthcare with Renee Thompson, Founder and CEO of Healthy Workforce Institute
3. Enhancing Safety with a Reporting Culture: Taking Action Against Violence in Healthcare with Karen Garvey, Vice President of Patient Safety and Clinical Risk Management at Parkland Health
4. Exploring Threat Assessment Strategies in Healthcare Settings with Randy Stephan and Mark Concordia
5. An Expert's Advice on Building a Culture of Safety in Healthcare with Dr. Lynn Van Male
6. From Challenges to Solutions: Fostering Well-being Amidst Workplace Violence with Milla Felder, Vice President for Well-being at Advocate Health
7. The Alarming Surge of Community Violence and Its Healthcare Implications with Dr. Jason Stopyra

"The podcast series provides essential perspectives and strategies to tackle workplace violence and enhance safety in healthcare settings," said Mary Beth Kingston. "We invite healthcare professionals and leaders to tune in and benefit from the expert insights provided."

Renee Thompson, CEO and founder of the Healthy Workforce Institute, emphasized, "We've been using silence as a strategy for so many years. We must start speaking up and confronting disruptive behaviors when we see them. Organizations need to equip their leaders, especially frontline leaders, with the skills and tools they need to recognize disruptive behaviors, set behavioral expectations, confront bad behaviors, and hold people accountable."

The last episode in the series was with Dr. Stopyra emphasizing the necessity of cultivating a strong safety culture within healthcare organizations: "It's important for us in healthcare to prioritize a safety culture rooted in our values, beliefs, and norms...and thereby improve our ability to take the best care of our patients so they can heal and be well."

New episodes are added to the series periodically to continue advancing the conversation and solutions to this problem.
