Ferry rides feel like a cruise

Ferry operators invested heavily in comfort, offering amenities akin to cruises. The most convenient ferry is the GNV La Superba, which operates from Northern Italy from the city of Genoa to Palermo, located on the Southern Italian island of Sicily. The Mediterranean crossing, lasting 20 hours, provides a number of comfort features, including private cabins, complimentary Wi-Fi, live entertainment in the atrium, à la carte restaurants, a designated shopping deck, children's play areas, and even spa facilities—all included in the ticket price. The Italian ferry accommodates approximately 3,000 passengers and 1,000 vehicles. It ranks as the fourth most affordable ferry route analyzed, with a family ticket priced at just $0.45 per mile.

Additional convenient ferry routes connect Livorno (Tuscany, Italy) with the port of Bastia on the island of Corsica, Genoa (Liguria, Italy) with Porto Torres in Sardinia, and Genoa with the town of Olbia on Sardinia.

An inexpensive alternative to domestic flights

Travel experts discovered that ferry connections offer highly cost-effective alternatives to flights through a cost analysis of 14 selected routes. In 12 out of 14 cases, the ferry proved to be significantly cheaper than a flight—sometimes by up to 86 percent.

The ferry from Dover in England to Calais on the French coast surpasses the famous Eurostar train by 6 percent. On average, the price difference between a flight and a ferry was a staggering 49 percent, highlighting substantial savings on ferry journeys.
