Connected Aircraft Industry News

In August 2023, BAE Systems acquired Ball Aerospace for USD 5.6 billion to expand its capacity in space. The acquisition expanded BAE's space industry presence and increased its alignment with customer priorities in the U.S. defense strategy.

In June 2023, Honeywell signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) with ST Engineering to explore opportunities around Retrofit, Modification, and Upgrade (RMU) programs for fixed-wing & rotary-wing platforms. This MOU will strengthen the relationship between Honeywell and ST Engineering through cooperation to explore the feasibility of RMU programs.

The Connected Aircraft market report has segmentation to increase accuracy and make data collection easier. A category, a distinguishing factor in an industry, is the type of distribution channel, application, product or service. This level of segmentation makes it easier to analyze and understand the market. At the same time, what types of consumers become customers of this industry are highlighted. Regarding distribution channels, the market report looks at the different distribution technologies for a product or service.

Integrating 5G technology in connected aircraft enhances in-flight connectivity by providing faster data transmission, lower latency, and greater network capacity. This enables a seamless experience for passengers, supporting high-bandwidth applications and services.

The Internet of Things (IoT) in connected aircraft involves sensors collecting real-time data on various components. This data is analyzed to predict maintenance needs, reduce downtime, and optimize operational efficiency by addressing potential issues before they become critical. Also, data analytics and artificial intelligence in connected aircraft utilize advanced algorithms to interpret & derive insights from the vast amounts of data generated. This enhances operational decision-making, enables predictive analytics for maintenance, and contributes to overall efficiency improvements in aviation processes.

The report claims to split the regional scope of the Connected Aircraft Market into North America, Europe, Asia-Pacific, South America & Middle East, and Africa. Which among these regions has been touted to amass the largest market share over the anticipated duration

How do the sales figures look at present How does the sales scenario look for the future Considering the present scenario, how much revenue will each region attain by the end of the forecast period

How much is the market share that each of these regions has accumulated presently How much is the growth rate that each landscape will depict over the predicted timeline
