Hi-Heat Industries

Our late founders, Charlie Guinn and Susan Knedler, created a vision where Hi-Heat is sustainable well into the future, and employees are the foundation to the Company's success.

"Following their loss, I've been entrusted with guiding the team they established into a new era, embracing an Employee Stock Ownership Plan (ESOP) as a tangible expression of Charlie & Susan's gratitude. This move aligns with their vision of fostering a workplace where everyone is invested in our success and can share in the rewards of our collective work" - Steve Phillips, CEO.

Based on ESOP data, the move to employee ownership will enhance Hi-Heat's capabilities and overall efficiency because it aligns employees with stakeholder goals.

As Hi-Heat embarks on this new journey, the Company reassures its valued customers, suppliers, and partners that this transition will strengthen its commitment to delivering high-quality heating products.
