— 2SIXL Dental Builders is “here to bring you some informative content on dental construction” with the launch of its new podcast series, Dental Construction Insider. This series delves into the complexities of dental practice development and construction, providing invaluable insights and advice to dentists nationwide.

2SIXL Dental Builders designed Dental Construction Insider to be the ultimate resource for dental professionals at any stage of building, renovating, or expanding their practices. Listeners can expect to learn about the latest trends, innovations, and expert opinions in the dental construction industry. Episodes will feature a mix of interviews, guest speakers, exclusive behind-the-scenes stories, and practical tips to empower dentists with the knowledge they need to bring their practice vision to life.

2SIXL Dental Builders, headed by seasoned construction manager, Tommy Morales, is a leading construction management company specializing in boutique dental office construction across the United States. Based in San Antonio, TX, Morales and his team bring years of dedicated experience in office design, permitting, construction management, and contractor management. With a reputation for solving complex problems and hands-on project management, 2SIXL Dental Builders is committed to turning dentists' dream of owning a bespoke dental office into a reality.

Whether in San Antonio, the surrounding communities, or anywhere across the U.S., join the conversation on building the future of dental practices. Morales encourages dentists to tune in to Dental Construction Insider on Apple Podcasts or Spotify. He and the 2SIXL Dental Builders team plan to release a new episode once a month filled with expert advice on dental construction.
